

CONTENTS

Introduction by Finola Austin.....	X
Preface to the Second Edition by Anne Brontë	XIII

THE LETTERS

I	A Discovery	3
II	An Interview.....	14
III	A Controversy.....	20
IV	The Party	29
V	The Studio.....	38
VI	Progression.....	43
VII	The Excursion.....	51
VIII	The Present.....	62
IX	A Snake in the Grass	67
X	A Contract and a Quarrel	79
XI	The Vicar Again.....	84
XII	A Tête-à-Tête and a Discovery.....	89
XIII	A Return to Duty.....	99
XIV	An Assault.....	104
XV	An Encounter and its Consequences	111

THE DIARY

XVI	The Warnings of Experience	120
XVII	Further Warnings.....	133
XVIII	The Miniature	142
XIX	An Incident.....	154
XX	Persistence.....	161
XXI	Opinions	169
XXII	Traits of Friendship	174
XXIII	First Weeks of Matrimony.....	190
XXIV	First Quarrel	196

XXV	First Absence.....	205
XXVI	The Guests	216
XXVII	A Misdemeanour	220
XXVIII	Parental Feelings	227
XXIX	The Neighbour	231
XXX	Domestic Scenes	241
XXXI	Social Virtues	254
XXXII	Comparisons: Information Rejected.....	269
XXXIII	Two Evenings.....	283
XXXIV	Concealment	296
XXXV	Provocations	301
XXXVI	Dual Solitude.....	307
XXXVII	The Neighbour Again	312
XXXVIII	The Injured Man	323
XXXIX	A Scheme of Escape	334
XL	A Misadventure.....	348
XLI	“Hope Springs Eternal in the Human Breast” ...	353
XLII	A Reformation	360
XLIII	The Boundary Passed.....	365
XLIV	The Retreat.....	372

THE LETTERS

XLV	Reconciliation	381
XLVI	Friendly Counsels	396
XLVII	Startling Intelligence	403
XLVIII	Further Intelligence.....	417
XLIX	423
L	Doubts and Disappointments	434
LI	An Unexpected Occurrence	444
LII	Fluctuations	454
LIII	Conclusion	462

This Contents page contains the original chapter headings that were present in the first printed edition of 1848. These headings were removed in later (one-volume) editions of the text after Anne Brontë's death in 1849.